The design is crisp and clean, with a graphical. The present invention relates to a process for preparing a dual active catalyst for desulfurization and hydrodesulfurization of heavy oils. The invention is especially advantageous when it is applied to catalytic cracking processes, wherein the catalyst is used both for desulfurization and hydrodesulfurization of the feedstock. The present invention is addressed, but not limited, to a process for preparing catalysts in which a silica-alumina support matrix is impregnated with a phosphorous component and a Group VIII element. It is well known that such a catalyst can be used both as a catalyst for hydrodesulfurization and as a catalyst for desulfurization. A process for preparing a dual active catalyst has been described in the European patent application No. A2-0082361.8. However, this process comprises the following steps: a) a precursor catalyst component is prepared by adding to a hydrogel a mixture of basic compounds; b) the precursor is dried to a constant weight and then it is impregnated with a phosphorus-containing compound and an organoaluminum compound, the compound having hydroxy groups; c) the impregnated precursor is dried again; d) the phosphorus-containing compound is removed; e) the aluminum compound is removed; f) the precursor is calcined; and g) after cooling, the precursor is pulverized. A disadvantage of this process is that the active component of the catalysts thus prepared is a different compound, namely a phosphoric acid compound, which has to be removed from the catalyst in order to obtain an active catalyst component. Another patent application (European patent application No. 885102421.0) describes the preparation of a catalyst for hydrodesulfurization and for desulfurization of a hydrocarbon feedstock. A precursor catalyst is prepared by impregnating a support with an aqueous solution of a hydrosoluble binder. The solution is made up of a preselected dilute aqueous solution of an aluminum compound and the solution is also adjusted to a pH of 5 to 12. The precursor is dried to a constant weight and then it is impregnated with a phosphorous compound. The impregnation solution is e79caf774b
